The AZUBIWERK München is a joint project of the City of Munich, the DGB-Jugend and the Kreisjugendring München-Stadt. We aim to improve the living, training and housing conditions of vocational trainees in Munich in the long term. One of our central tasks is to create and provide affordable housing for vocational trainees. The city council has assigned the AzubiWerk to create an overview of all offers for vocational trainees. An overview of the various facilities and their services was compiled as a first step and linked to the AzubiWerk Munich homepage. This is a collection of texts and links that is not very appealing to the target group.

Problem definition
In Munich, there's a wealth of guidance services available for vocational trainees in diverse situations. Yet, a user-friendly, centralized, and interconnected platform is notably absent, hindering trainees’ ability to navigate through these resources seamlessly.

Description
Pooling and updating the vast array of information presents a significant hurdle, especially given that it originates from multiple providers (ensuring up-to-dateness and uniform presentation). Addressing this technical challenge is crucial, but equally important is the need for an engaging and straightforward user interface, potentially available in multiple languages, to guide users through the diverse range of topics.

Key questions
A central information platform: how can we bundle decentralized/external information, keep it up to date and present it in an appealing way so that users can find their way around easily? Which technical solutions are conceivable (gamification, AI chatbot, app)?

Who are we? We are relatively new: The conceptual work on AzubiWerk München began at the end of 2020. In November 2021, the Munich City Council approved the fundamental decision laying the groundwork for our launch. The realization decision followed in May 2022, detailing how we intend to work specifically. Finally, in October 2022, the nonprofit was founded. Our Mission: The City of Munich, together with the Kreisjugendring München-Stadt and the DGB-Jugend München, established an apprenticeship facility for Munich with the aim of permanently improving the living, training, and housing conditions of apprentices in Munich. The primary task of AzubiWerk München is to create and provide affordable housing. We do this in cooperation with municipal housing associations. It aims to further network existing counseling and support services for apprentices in Munich and give additional weight to apprentices’ concerns. Who We Serve: AzubiWerk München is aimed at adult apprentices in dual vocational training with training locations in the city of Munich, students at Munich vocational schools, as well as technical schools and master schools. The first projects: The first pilot project at Innsbrucker Ring was decided in 2013, and in 2019, the first apprentices were able to move into the 91 apartments. Through this project, we were able to try out a lot and learn a lot. In the summer of 2023, we were able to move into Hanns-Seidel-Platz - the largest building with 221 apartments. And for the first time, apprentices could apply directly without their employers. We are currently working on many more projects because the goal is 1000 apartments for apprentices in Munich.
